The Use of Assistive Technologies in Social Care: Addressing the Social Dimension

Workshop 1: 30-31 May, 2013

Day 1 - 30 May 2013

10.00 -10.25	Aims of the symposium and recent policy contexts
	Andrew Eccles, University of Strathclyde
10.25 – 11.15	Assistive technologies: where are we and where are we headed?
	Dr. James Irvine & Dr. Jamie Banford, University of Strathclyde
11.15	Tea/Coffee
11.45 - 12.15	Response: where do social sciences need to engage?
	Professor Jennifer Harris, University of Dundee
12.15 - 1.00	Break out into small groups: discussion on previous papers
1.00 - 2.00	Lunch
2.00 - 3.00	Delivering the care in telecare: The case for practice-based evaluation methods and the involvement of users
	Prof. Flis Henwood & Dr. Mary Darking, University of Brighton
3.00 - 3.30	Assistive technologies: ethical issues and ethical research
	Andrew Eccles, University of Strathclyde
3.30 - 4.00	Tea/Coffee
4.00 - 5.00	Break out into small groups: discussion on previous papers

Day 2 - 31 May 2013

10 - 10.15	Introduction to Day 2
	Andrew Eccles, University of Strathclyde
10.30 - 11.15	Assistive technologies and disability: research findings
	Prof. Jennifer Harris, University of Dundee
11.15	Tea/Coffee
11.45 - 12.30	Experiences from the Netherlands (1) Research and policy agendas
	Prof. A. J. Pols, University of Amsterdam
12.30 - 1.00	Experiences from the Netherlands (2) Observation of technology users using technologies
	Dr. Ike Kamphof, University of Maastricht
1.00 - 2.00	Lunch
2.00 - 3.20	Break out into small groups: discussion on previous papers
3.20 - 3.50	Tea/Coffee
3.50 - 4.20	Operational issues and pressures of responding to the policy agenda
	Fiona Taylor, Local Government
4.20 - 4.50	Break out into small groups: discussion on the previous paper
4.50 - 5.00	Where next? Maintaining links, looking towards further research
	Andrew Eccles, University of Strathclyde